Georgetown authors collaborate to create writing classes

By CHARLOTTE KOVALCHUK

Georgetown authors Shawne Raines and Asian Frost are teaming up to help new and established writers of all levels.

They'll host two individual courses and one together in the fall. Ms. Shawne will teach the first two sessions, starting Sept. 13, followed by Ms. Frost teaching the last two sessions, starting Sept. 20.

In these sessions, attendees will learn the ins and outs of the writing process.

Ms. Shawne is a former Madison County Herald publisher and is currently the owner of the Lefler Law Firm.

Ms. Frost is an Emmy award-winning filmmaker, award-winning author, and former Madison County Herald Publisher.

The classes will be held at the Madison County Herald building, 201 N. Lampasas Street in Georgetown.

One of the main goals of the classes is to give writers the tools and skills they need to write their stories.

In the first session, Ms. Shawne will talk about the importance of having a consistent writing routine.

In the second session, Ms. Shawne will discuss the importance of editing and revising your work.

In the third session, Ms. Frost will talk about the importance of marketing and promoting your work.

The last session will be a joint session where both authors will share their experiences and give tips on how to get started as a writer.

The classes will be open to anyone who is interested in writing, regardless of their level of experience.

To register, please email Shawne at slefler@leflerlegal.com or call 512-863-2813.

The classes will be held on Sept. 13, 20, 10, and 17.

First of all, we would like to thank all the authors who participate in these classes.

Secondly, we would like to thank our students for their hard work and dedication.

Finally, we would like to thank all of our sponsors for their support.

We hope to see you in these classes!
